

---

Front Runner Commuter Rail

(2009-Present)

---

This on-going project involves the construction of a major commuter rail system with track and stations, between Salt Lake City and Provo, Utah. It requires a substantial number of temporary structures to allow for bridge widening, new bridge construction and highway support for rail construction. GDSI is providing shoring design and field engineering services throughout the project for Ralph L. Wadsworth Construction, Inc.